

This week, we're continuing to highlight our favorite farmer's market finds. At Ingardia Bros., we're proud to support our local farmers. Each week our buyers head to the Santa Monica Farmer's Market to source the freshest California-grown produce from our local farms. Take a look at this week's selection as we highlight a few of our favorite summertime picks.

Red Zebra Heirloom Tomatoes from Her Farms

These beautifully unique Red Zebra Heirloom tomatoes are real summertime stunners. Their bright red color is contrasted by golden striations. These beautiful heirlooms come to us from Her Farms in Fresno.

Candy Snap Grapes from Murray Farms

Candy Snap Grapes get their name from their intense fruity sweetness. Some customers say these grapes offer tropical nuances reminiscent of strawberries, melons, and pineapple.

Thomcord Grapes from Murray Farms

Two of America's favorite grapes—Concord, of peanut-butter-and-jelly-sandwich fame, and Thompson Seedless, a summertime classic—are proud parents of a seedless grape called Thomcord. Thomcord has the blue-black skin, whitish bloom, and bold flesh color of the Concord, plus a pleasing Concord-like flavor that's lightened by the sweet, mild taste of its Thompson parent.

Scarlet Runner Beans from 2 Peas in a Pod Farms

Coming to us from 2 Peas in a Pod Farms, Scarlet Runner Beans are one of the oldest cultivated foods of the New World. Before they're cooked, they boast beautiful pink and mauve-speckled black beans. While their color subdues with cooking, their flavor and texture remain.
